Dear Colleague,

It is my pleasure to Contact you as Prof. Tibor Varady from the Legal Studies Department at Central European University suggested to inform you up upcoming sessions of the CRC. In case you are not aware, the Curriculum Resource Center is an outreach program of the Central European University that provides curriculum and course development support in the social sciences for the university professors of the East-Central European region and the former Soviet Union. Its main activity is to sponsor week to ten day long visits to CEU for a period of exchange and course development activities.

Despite some earlier setbacks, CRC is again fully operating, and scheduling sessions. Merrill Oates has left CRC as Director, and I have assumed the role of CRC Coordinator. I hope that we can have a smooth transition, and continue to offer the same quality sessions as in the past.

The primary reason I am writing is to inform you about a large event in which CRC will be involved. This is a World Bank/CEU workshop between May 12-17. The topics of this workshop are relevant to several disciplines, such as Economics, Business, Legal Studies, and International Relations. We are currently accepting applications for the World Bank/CEUworkshop. I hope that you are able to apply to this session, and if not, I ask your assistance in promoting this workshop with your fellow colleagues and contacts, and soliciting applications.

Please find attached advertisements and literature on the upcoming CRC events. Once again, any assistance you can provide in soliciting applications would be greatly appreciated. You will find enclosed an announcement for a Gender Studies session, and I kindly ask you to post this at your institution.

If you have any questions or inquiries, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Best Regards,

Kevin Nejedly
CRC Coordinator

Dear Mr. Nejedly,

Thank you for your March 19 letter and enclosures regarding the upcoming sessions of the CRC (World bank workshop, May 12-17. As I was away form Belgrade for a few weeks, please forgive me for not answering sooner.

Concerning the CRC offer, I am happy to tell you that I was informed by my fellow professors that a younger member of the Faculty, Mr. Dobrosav Milovanović has applied for the Workshop. I strongly recommend his participation.

As I myself had great benefit from my CRC stay in Budapest last may, please keep me informed on your future activities.

My regards to Prof. Varady.

Sincerely yours,

Dr Stevan Lilić

DESCRIPTION OF WORLD BANK/CEU WORKSHOP

Title: Corporate Governance in Central Europe and Russia

When: 12-17 May 1997

Summary: The Economic Development Institute (EDI) of the World Bank jointly with the Central European University will conduct a one week flagship course on issues of Corporate Governance in Central Europe and Russia. It is intended for professors and researchers in transition economies.

Goals and Expected Impacts: The goal of this session is to advance the participants' understanding of issues and patterns of corporate governance in large, newly privatized firms in selected transition economies. It will examine ownership patterns and the legal and regulatory regime for corporate governance -- including company and securities laws, laws governing financial intermediaries, and laws controlling data collection and enterprise exit in mature market economies and in transition economies, and it will explore how they are influencing or are likely to influence the effectiveness of corporate governance. The participants are expected to integrate this knowledge into their own teaching and research.

Funding: Costs will be shared between EDI and CEU; with the EDI providing for the major share of cost of resource persons and curriculum preparation and the CEU providing local facilities and secondary funding for the travel/lodging of external participants from East/Central Europe.

Role of Curriculum Resource Center: CRC will be able to welcome many academics and professors from the East-Central European region to participate in the World Bank/CEU seminar. Selected participants will be fully sponsored by the CRC. Persons interested in attending the workshop need to send to CRC office a completed application. Interested persons are also free to contact our office for any additional information or application assistance.

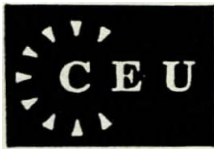

Applicants for this program:

- should be university teachers who are preparing new or revising previously taught courses;
- should submit an outline of a course plan with their application, indicating the kind of materials they would like to gather during their visit;
- should be willing to bring materials from their home university to contribute to the CRC syllabi collection;
- must have sufficient English language ability to participate in discussions and use resource materials.

Application Deadline: 10 April 1997.

Topics to be discussed:

- Session I Corporate Governance: Owners, Creditors, and Other Constraints on Managers
- Session II: Company Law and Corporate Governance
- Session III: Regulation of Securities Markets and Investment Funds
- Session IV: Corporate Governance by Creditors: Collateral and Bankruptcy Regimes
- Session V: Ownership and Enterprise Performance: Evidence from Survey Data in CEE and Russia
- Session VI: Summing up and Roundtable Discussion among Participants

Curriculum Development Program

Statement of Purpose

The Curriculum Resource Center (CRC) is an outreach program of the Central European University (CEU) which aims to provide curriculum support to teachers and scholars from the region and increase their integration into the international academic community. It does this by providing greater access to the academic resources available at the Central European University. CRC awards travel grants to university teachers from each country of the region to spend one week in residence at CEU working to develop new – or revise and improve – course syllabi and curriculum plans. Visitors spend their time accessing the syllabi collection, meeting with faculty and students, and using the CEU Library. CRC is funded by a grant from the Higher Education Support Program of the Open Society Institute – Budapest.

Eligibility

- ◆ Any teacher in higher education in the Social Sciences or Humanities, from East-Central Europe or the former Soviet Union, may apply to participate in the CRC Curriculum Development Program.
- ◆ Applicants should be currently teaching courses or preparing courses to be taught in the near future.
- ◆ All applicants should propose a specific course they would like to develop or improve while at CEU.
- ◆ Preference will be given to applicants whose course development plan can clearly benefit from the resources available at CEU.
- ◆ Applicants must have sufficient English language competence to make adequate use of library materials and to participate in group discussions.

CRC will cover all costs for:

- ◆ Travel related expenses – including airfare, airport transportation, passport, and visa fees.
Note: All reimbursement requests MUST be accompanied by valid receipts and an exchange rate statement.
- ◆ Hotel, transport and per diem expenses while in Budapest.
- ◆ Photocopy costs for duplication of materials at CEU.
- ◆ Book purchase allowance – small sum to buy books for home university library.

Application Submission Procedure

- ◆ Applications are FREE and may be copied.
- ◆ Application form (or letter containing the same information) may be submitted either directly to CRC at the address below, or via a local Soros Foundation office.
- ◆ Application deadlines for discipline specific sessions will be announced to Soros Foundation offices periodically.
